County Agent O. O. Swords, assistant agent John Smith and Home agent Mrs. Marcia Hughes will attend a Southeast Mississippi District meeting of county agents in Laurel Thursday and Friday.

Hancock County Sheriff Gerald V. Price Sr., said Gov. Ross Barnett told him that he will ask the current special session of the Mississippi legislature to consider a sheriff's succession bill "if the sheriff is in favor of it."

Price said his chief deputy Lander Necaise, went to Jackson Monday afternoon to attend a scheduled conference with Barnett requested by the sheriffs' association.

On arrival, he said he found the conference had been postponed but Price said he talked with the governor anyway.

"I talked to the governor concerning the sheriff's bill and he said if the sheriffs are in favor of it he would go along with it," Price said. He said the governor definitely indicated he would ask the legislature to take action on the proposed bill.

Mississippi voters last June approved a constitutional amendment which authorized the legislature to enact a law permitting sheriffs to seek reelection in those counties where the law enforcement and tax collecting duties are separated.

Sheriff Price said he favored a succession bill because it would permit voters to choose a sheriff "on his record."

WOOL GROWERS URGED TO KEEP RECORDS

Wool growers who marketed lambs this fall should keep adequate records of their sales so that they will be able to make proper applications for payment under the wool incentive program, Tommy R. Shaw, chairman of the Hancock Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, urged today.

The sales record for lambs sold must include the name of the buyer, his signature, and the number of liveweight lambs sold, plus the description "unborn" Lamb payments are made only on lambs that have never been shorn to encourage the customary practice of selling lambs with the wool on.

The chairman emphasized that growers should get all their fall sales records together and either keep them in a safe place at home or file them at the ASCS County office. The final date to apply for payments on 1962-63 marketings is next April 30, but an application may be submitted any time between now and then. The applications cover wool and lamb marketings from April 1, 1962, through March 31, 1963.

Mr. Shaw said that lamb feeders particularly should keep accurate records which will establish the length of time they have owned lambs on which they apply for payment. Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more, and the amount of payment is based on weight gain of the lambs during the seller's ownership.

HANCOCK COUNTY MAN FREED ON BOND AFTER RAID

A Hancock County resident arrested last week by U. S. Treasury Department agents was released after posting a $750 property bond on charges of violating internal revenue laws.

John Ory Bourgeois, 47, Waveland, was arrested when agents out of the Gulfport office of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division raided an illicit distillery operation agents said was located on Bourgeois' property.

Investigators David W. Doyle and George E. Langton said distillery apparatus was seized in a shed in the backyard of Bourgeois' residence, located on Broad St., near the Sears avenue intersection in Waveland.

Doyle said the rig consisted of a 40-gallon-capacity copper pot still, nine 55-gallon-capacity drum fermenters and approximately 500 gallons of sugar rye mash.

Bourgeois was released under bond following preliminary proceedings before U. S. Commissioner Mrs. Irene Humphreys at Biloxi. Doyle said he is charged with possession and operation of an unregistered still and possession of mash. The bond is returnable to the February term of federal district court, Southern District of Mississippi at Biloxi.

AGRICULTURE TOPS IN JOBS, INCOME FOR MISSISSIPPIANS

Agriculture is the backbone of Mississippi's economy. It is a way of life for a large segment of our people. It provides more jobs and more income for our people than any other enterprise.

Of the labor force in Mississippi, includes 134,000 farm operators; 37.7 per cent work on farms. This 64,000 hired hands and 48,000 family workers, excluding operators. There are actually a little over one-half as many hired hands on farms as are engaged in all manufacturing industries of the state.

The estimated value of agricultural products in 1962 will approach $720,000,000. Add to this the sale of timber of around $85,000,000 making a total farm income of $785,000,000.

To examine the receipts from some of the agricultural enterprises we find that our cotton crop will sell for more than $300,000,000; livestock including cattle and hogs are valued at approximately $125,000,000; poultry $105,000,000; other field crops $130,000,000; milk and milk products $60,000,000; and forestry products $65,000,000.

WOOL GROWERS URGED TO KEEP RECORDS

Wool growers who marketed lambs this fall should keep adequate records of their sales so that they will be able to make proper applications for payment under the wool incentive program, Tommy R. Shaw, chairman of the Hancock Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, urged today.

The sales record for lambs sold must include the name of the buyer, his signature, and the number of live-weight lambs sold, plus the description "washable" Lamb payments are made only on lambs that have never been shorn to encourage the customary practice of selling lambs with the wool on.

The chairman emphasized that growers should get all their fall sales records together and either keep them in a safe place at home or file them at the ASCS County office. The final date to apply for payments on 1962-63 marketings is next April 30, but an application may be submitted any time between now and then. The applications cover wool and lamb marketings from April 1, 1962, through March 31, 1963.

Mr. Shaw said that lamb feeders

His birth, through His early years and ministry up to the Sermon on the Mount, was prepared by the famous Project 20 group of the National Broadcasting Company, and was presented by U. S. Steel over the NBC television network during the past two Christmas seasons.

The 16-mm. film is composed entirely of views of famous paintings of Christ, as rendered by great artists of the ages. Camerasmen traveled all over the world, visiting art galleries and private collections, to capture the paintings on motion picture film.

The "still pictures in motion" technique was used in making the movie, with cameras moving about the paintings to catch intimate detail, then backing away to capture their full glory. This leaves the viewer with the feeling that he has witnessed living action rather than static pictures.

Many famous artists are represented, such as Michelangelo, Rembrandt, Bellini, Bloch and others. Against this background, Alexander Scourby narrates the story of Christ.

In almost its entirety his narration is composed of direct quotation from the Bible.

An original musical score, composed by Robert Russell Bennett, adds further to the mood and beauty of the presentation.

Inquiries and requests for use of "The Coming of Christ" should be addressed to U. S. Steel's Southeast District Public Relations Office, P. O. Box 599, Fairfield, Ala.

records which will show the length of time lambs are on the market and the amount of wool on each lamb during the winter's season.

Yes, the camel got his nose under the tent, all right . . . . .

AND HERE'S WHAT HE SAW HIDING THERE!

"Never let a camel get his nose under your tent" was the "moral" to a parable cited in a recent newspaper advertisement which bore the signature of Jack Watson, president, Mississippi Power Company.

The advertisement was apparently intended as an attack on rural electrification. Its untruths and implications were an affront to the million Mississippians who have invested in and prospered through rural electrification.

The camel really did get his nose under Mr. Watson's tent. What he saw there was both shocking and shameful.

You know what he saw. He got his first peek in 1935. He saw less than one percent of Mississippi's rural homes with electricity. He saw Mr. Watson's company, and others like it, refuse to help them. But he didn't push the tent over. He quietly withdrew and walked around it.

... And it came to pass that throughout Mississippi and across the land, the little people or "peasants" banded together. They worked, invested, and borrowed money so they could supply themselves with electricity.

All the while, power company officials kept saying, "the rural people don't want electricity. They are not willing to pay for it."

... The sultans sat on their pillows in their silk-lined tents and could not hear the pleas of the peasants. Then one day they ventured forth from their tents and what they saw made the toes of their velvet boots curl.

Across the land they saw poles and lines!

... The sultans called for the scrolls and they saw that the peasants had borrowed money and had put it to useful purpose. In fact, they had done so well they were not only repaying the money, they were repaying it with interest.

The power companies were profiting from the rural lines, because they were selling the wholesale electricity distributed through them.

... But the rich sultans held a council of war. "We won't use our swords," they agreed, "because there's a quieter way. Let's just squeeze them to death."

So they raised the rates for wholesale electricity. They added clauses to the wholesale contracts restricting use of electricity which the rural people purchased from them. They rapidly began to strangle any attempts at expansion by the rural people.

... The sultans were very shrewd. They soon learned that they could make a lot of profit by squeezing just a little. "If we can squeeze just a little harder, we can take it all," they said. And even what the peasants were sometimes led to believe was a friendly hug, often turned out to be a squeeze.

In 1962, the camel took another peek under the tent. He saw things he had never dreamed would come to pass. He saw great riches and means of propaganda extolling the virtues of the private monopoly power companies as big tax payers. Here are some of the things the camel saw. They are things the power companies prefer to keep hidden! This is the reason they don't like camels nosing around their tents.

1. Mississippi Power Company, with offices in Gulfport, and it's counterpart, Mississippi Power & Light Company, with offices in Jackson, are not Mississippi companies at all. MP&L is a Maine Corporation, and MP&L is a Florida Corporation.
2. Power companies pay no taxes. Every cent of their alleged "taxes" are added right into the bills of the people who use the electricity. The people, their customers, pay their taxes for them. All the power companies do is write the check and then brag about it.
- But that's just half the story about taxes. The shocking part is that they do not send on to the government nearly all of the money they are allowed to collect from customers as taxes.
- This money collected from consumers for taxes, but not paid as taxes has reached staggering proportions. Nationally it amounts to $1.3 billion.
- As of December, 1960, the figure was $5,212,858 for Miss. Power Co. MP&L has collected more than $10,270,000 from consumers for taxes which it has not paid out as taxes.
- Electric Power Associations purchase wholesale electricity from the power companies. They are, therefore, paying a large percentage of the money collected from customers as taxes. And, of course, only a portion of that money collected for taxes ever reaches the tax tills of the state and nation. It is drained off in additional profits to the power companies' out-of-state holding companies and stockholders.
- This Maine Corporation (Miss. Power Co.) which gathers its shekels, however, in Mississippi, has just obligated itself to spend $50,000,000 to build a power plant in Alabama to supply its needs in Mississippi, rather than spending this money in Mississippi.

There is much, much more. It can be found by peering through the tent. It has for years been buried and distorted by multi-million dollar propaganda campaigns which have infiltrated every element of American Society. But if you look through the tent, you can see it, crystal clear.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Time was when it took a month for a letter to get from one city to another, and such things as radio and television were unheard of.

Now we don't think in terms of miles — we think in terms of the time it takes to span them, and it doesn't take long to get around the world.

As for communications — well, they're instantaneous, these days.

But for all of that, we seem to find it just as hard to understand one another as we ever did.

Only one form of communication hasn't changed... God's method of communication. He speaks to you through His Church, and through a Bible that has survived the centuries. Go to church this Sunday, every Sunday, and hear His message for yourself.

Broilers, turkeys, red tart cherries, these foods have a kind sound don't they? They are the plentiful foods that are better, and you'll probably be finding them in your menus.

SAFE CHRISTMAS TOYS

When it comes time to buy for Christmas gifts, it's always a question of which to select. What two-year-old Dave likes best? What will five-year-old like best? And not only what will they like to play with, but what will be safest for them to play with?

Here are some hints for groups on selecting toys for children:

The babies less than a year old like toys that are attention-getting. They like to feel, chew, hold and drop these toys. Make sure the item you select is washable, breakable and has no sharp edges. Suggestions are squeak toys, colored balls and dolls.

Stay away from gifts that they might swallow and from those that have small attachments that will come loose and be put into the mouth, eyes or ears.

Little ones one to two years of age are curious. They like puzzle toys; things they can take apart and put back together. They like push-pull toys and they move around from one place to another, and large blocks and peg boards.

At two to three years old, a child likes to build with blocks, turn pages of a book. Don't buy breakable blocks or those painted with a lead-based paint. Make sure they are small enough for little hands. Buy finger paints, modeling clay and rocking horses.

Three to four years old youngsters like to play make-believe. Give them toys that encourage the "let's pretend". Select such things as toy telephones, brooms, miniature tools, suitcases.

Boys and girls are in a dramatic and creative age from four to six years old. Give them equipment and help them learn to read and write — a blackboard, paints and paintbooks.

For children six to eight years old select equipment and toys that will help them develop skills and self-confidence. On this list are simple games and puzzles, sewing materials, construction sets, roller skates.

From eight years old to adolescence the child's interests vary. Buy equipment and materials that stimulate various interests in children — construction toys, tools, hobby materials, games, sports equipment, musical instruments.

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT—

Local game warden Nolan Lader and son Nodie while on the Kiln Highway saw a deer run across the road and run into a fence several times finally hitting a post and getting its head caught in the wire. They released the doe only to find that its back had been broken. They killed it and gave it to the home for the aged. Venison was on the menu a couple of times.

Have been in New Orleans and Baton Rouge for the past week. Fishing has been very good in both States. Most seasons are now open with the exception of ducks and quail which will open in Dec.

Went fishing at Bayou Corne and Grand Bayou in Louisiana Saturday with Luke Elliott and Malcolm Upton. The limit of green trout was caught with a number of nice trout being landed. Both fishermen were using the famous H & H Lures with yellow and blue and white skirts. These baits are ideal for spinning rods and trolling.

Recommend them for this time of the year when fish are striking underwater baits. Red fish like 'em too.

Bill Scheurman and Tony Entenants are still catching fish at Leeville near Houma, La. Red fish are their specialty.

Henry Geishenhelmer was telling us of the good fishing at Grand Isle. He says he usually gets his share.

Dan Haggerty, Sr., Dan Jr., Mike and Pat Haggerty have a fishing trip planned for this weekend. Hope it materializes. They will be guests of Irvin Ballard.

Won't be long now before the crayfish season opens. Many Louisianans are anxiously awaiting this season. Crayfishing should be better this season according to Jim Williams who usually gets his share. Crayfishing is a favorite sport and eating them is equally as well.

Wop Glover spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Hancock County spending most of his time fishing and hunting.

By many, turtle meat is considered a delicacy and brings premium prices. It is used for making turtle soup and is very tasty when fried like chicken. So turtle hunting is not only an off-beat sport, it can be profitable as well. One of the best for eating is the snapping turtle but be careful of the powerful beak on snapping turtles. Grab them by the tail or hind feet and be sure to keep them away from the body.

Their bite is anything but funny.

On our way to Baton Rouge a number of deer and rabbit hunters were on the loose, enjoying their favorite sports. Louisiana af-ford's excellent hunting during all seasons. Deer and rabbits seem to be rather plentiful this year.

Clayton, Chester, John McGow and Tony Thorman of Race St. New Orleans were telling us of the good fishing they have been enjoying. Tony Thorman has been getting his share of fish at half moon.

Thursday was a big day at the Fair Grounds when the 1962-63 season opened. As usual the horses ran true to form. Many fans returned home happy and others repeating the usual saying "couldn't get going." Local fans will be going over at every chance.

Japan's far-flung fishing fleet continued to lead the world in 1961 with a total catch of half a million tons more than in 1960, when Japan was the first nation ever to land more than six million tons of fish. Peru also showed big increases, to keep her place as the world's No. 2 fishing nation. Communist China was third, the Soviet Union fourth and the United States fifth. These figures were shown Sunday in the new Food and Agriculture Organization yearbook of fishery statistics for 1961. The report showed the world's total catch was 41.2 million metric tons, an increase of eight per cent over 1960.

WASHINGTON - Birds sometimes learn each other's languages. In France, the rook, carrion crow and jackdaw spend the winter in mixed flocks where they learn to respond to one another's calls. But American Eastern crows, members of the same species, do not understand the cries of others of their kind living in a different area.

No fallout shelter? Try Lake Pontchartrain, advised a university professor trained in shelter programs.

Take a small boat and put out several hundred feet from shore, advised Dr. Wayne P. Wallace of the University of Southwestern Louisiana Tuesday in New Orleans.

Cover the boat with a tarpaulin or something similar, he continued. Keep shaking the tarpaulin to get the fallout off. Fallout hitting the water will sink away from you. On land, it stays nearby, inflicting radiating damage.

On the other hand, Dr. Wallace said, the lake could be just the spot where the nuclear warhead will land. It's an inviting target, close to the Michoud plant, he noted.

And where the bomb hits, the fireball area, there's nothing and no one left to worry about fallout.

Times-Picayune

Haven't gotten any reports on squirrel and rabbit hunters as yet. Spoke to those who are going and will give you more on this later.

Mississippi has a new state record on spotted bass. Mr. Kenneth O. Tucker of Jackson was fishing on Grenada Reservoir with his wife when he landed his 5 pound 7 ounce beauty on September 29, 1962.

Barry O. Freeman, Chief Fisheries division of the Game and Fish Commission, said, "Normally the spotted bass does not reach a weight of more than 4 1/2 pounds. It is often difficult for the average fisherman to tell the difference between a large mouth bass and the spotted bass."

P. C. Allen, Creel census clerk with the Commission, checked Mr. Tucker's fish as part of the continual "Creel Census" on the reservoirs and verified the identification of the unusual catch.

Mr. Tucker was fishing with shiners and cane pole at the time he captured his prize.

Freeman stated, "That if anyone wishes to try to top Mr. Tucker's catch, but is not sure of the identification, that one way to identify the fish is to rub your finger across the back portion of the tongue of the fish. If it is rough feeling it is usually a spotted bass. The best method is to contact one of the technicians with the Game and Fish Commission for a positive identification."

QUAIL SEASON OPENS —

The long awaited quail season opens Saturday December 1, in all parts of Mississippi.

The prospects look good in all parts of Mississippi for an excellent season this year. Many areas have reported a lot of quail this year in places where quail have been scarce in the past.

The season runs from December 1, through February 8, 1963, in all counties except Benton, DeSoto, Marshall, Tippah and Tunica counties, where the season opens on December 1, and closes on January 31, 1963.

WOODCOCK SEASON NEARS —

The Federally regulated woodcock season opens in Mississippi on December 1. The season will run through January 9, 1963. The bag limit on woodcock is 4 per day with a possession limit of 8. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset each day.

Even though Mississippi has some citizen population of woodcocks the majority of the birds are migratory and they winter in the extreme southwest part of the State around the Hancock and Pearl River Counties.

REPRESENTATIVE VISITS GAME AND FISH AREA —

Representative Donald R. Chambliss of DeSoto County, a member of the House of Representatives, visited the Game and Fish Commission and John Phares, Federal Coordinator for Mississippi.

The Henneberry Area has a total of 6500 acres that are open for hunting squirrels, rabbits, quail, deer and doves.

Representative Chambliss stated,

"I am very impressed with the work that is going on in this area. It is well managed and looks to be an excellent public hunting area."

DUCK SEASON OPENS DEC. 6.

Ducks are reported on the way south for the duck season that opens on Thursday December 6. I have had many reports that there seems to be a lot of wood ducks this year.

Lewis Bays, waterfowl biologist for the Game and Fish Commission, reports that there are a lot of ducks of all types on the Grenada Waterfowl Refuge this year. "They have been feeding on the millet that we planted and flooded for them and they will be ready to move on to other feeding areas about the time the season opens," stated Bays.

The season which was shortened this year will run from December 6 to December 30.

DUCK REGULATIONS —

Shooting hours on opening day of the duck season will begin at 12:00 noon (standard time). All other days during the season shooting times will be from sunrise to sunset.

There is no open season on canvasback and redhead ducks. The daily bag limit may not include more than the following species than: (a) 1 hooded merganser; (b) 2 wood ducks; and (c) 1 mallard or 1 black duck. The possession limit may not include more than: (a) 1 hooded merganser; (b) 2 wood ducks; and (c) 2 mallard or black ducks, singly or in the aggregate of both kinds.

In all States in the Flyway in addition to other bag and possession limits, 2 additional scaup ducks are allowed in the daily bag limit and 4 additional scaup ducks are allowed in the possession limit. In addition to the limits on other
